The standardizeDataForTest.ipynb notebook was used to standardize our data. The Google Colab notebook is located in the standardized_data_program directory. You will need to upload all the game and season data from the data directory into your Google Colab environment — each file separately, not in a folder. To merge the data, adjust the season_files and game_files lines with the data files you want to merge. Remember that the season data should correspond to the previous year of the game data you are merging. The link to this notebook is:
